Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 5, 11, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Neidnig (US 2617916).

Neidnig discloses a warming apparatus comprising a panel of expandable material; a plurality of heating elements, having free ends, attached to the stretchable material', means for interconnecting the heating elements to a power supply to heat up the heating elements, wherein the panel of expandable material is formed into a tube, wherein the panel of expandable material is formed into a tube having a top opening and a bottom opening, wherein the heating elements include electrically resistive material, and further wherein the free ends of the heating elements are tapered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Neidnig.

Art Unit: 3742

Neidnig discloses the claimed invention except the specific use of polyester and neoprene as the materials. Neidnig discloses that the layers 12 and 13 can be of any suitable flexible material. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use polyester and neoprene, since it has been held to be within the general skill or a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. As evidence of the suitability of polyester and neoprene for use in heating pads, Anabtawi et al. (US 4810859) discloses the use of neoprene as a base layer for a heating device, and Zhao et al. (US 6392195) discloses the use of polyester for use as an outer cover for a heating pad.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Neidnig in view of Williams et al. (US 5981910).

Neidnig discloses the claimed invention except the closing of the bottom opening with neoprene. Williams discloses a heating device having a tubular shape with a top and bottom opening wherein the bottom opening is closed by another fabric piece. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in view of the teachings of Williams to modify the device of Neidnig to include an attachable bottom cap of neoprene to close the tubular shape of the Neidnig device in order to allow the heating pad to have yet another configuration of use capable of heating a vessel as is suggested by Williams.

Claims 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Neidnig.

Neidnig discloses the claimed invention except the use of a cigarette lighter for supplying power to the heating elements and the heating elements being secured to the heating pad with a zig-zag stitch. It is noted that the use of cigarette lighters are commonly used to power such devices, and that heating wires are typically affixed to the heating pad using zig-zag stitching. Official Notice is taken that the use of cigarette lighters for supplying power to the heating elements and the heating elements being secured to the heating pad with a zig-zag stitch is common knowledge in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 7 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 13-19 are allowed.
